Mitral and tricuspid valve assessment, diagnosis, and treatment are rapidly evolving disciplines highlighted by innovations in techniques, devices, and imaging. These developments have altered the clinical practice framework for approaching valve disease quantification and treatments, resulting in some confusion regarding the best management strategies. Further, the volume and complexity of the published data make it difficult for busy practitioners to remain up to date on their knowledge and practice. This educational activity will provide key insights into how to achieve excellent outcomes through best practice management and the selection and execution of surgical and interventional techniques.

This course is intended for cardiothoracic surgeons, cardiologists, interventional cardiologists, internists, nurses, physician assistants, and all health care professionals involved in the evaluation, diagnosis and/or management of patients with mitral and tricuspid disease.

If you wish to participate, there are two payment options. Exhibitors may pay by credit card while registering on the website or choose to pay later by check. Checks should be payable to The Cleveland Clinic Educational Foundation (Tax ID # 34-0714553) and mailed to:
